Over The Hill

Nothing much went on over the hill this week except a murder.

The City Councils of Monterey and Pacific Grove held public hearings on rent decontrol, Tuesday and Wednesday nights respectively, and will announce their decisions on July 1 (Monterey) and July 2 (Pacific Grove). Carmel, more expeditious, is decontrolled at this writing. (See story on this page.)

Col. Raymond R. Brady, an attorney from the east, has flown out to defend Sgt. C. Dean Chase, who is accused of writing a sassy letter to General Mark Clark and is about to be tried for it in court martial at Fort Ord. Brady is staying at La Playa hotel during the trial.

Manuel Maxwell Stewart, 43 year old Seaside laborer, appears in superior court in Salinas this morning for his preliminary hearing on a first degree murder charge. He is accused of beating to death his common-law wife, Joy Towmey, 55. The supposed beating took place Saturday night, and the woman died Sunday in the Monterey hospital. Deputy District Attorney Edward K. Barnes, scouting around among the neighbors, says he has dredged up evidence that there had been numerous fights between the couple throughout the years. A week before the alleged murder was committed, Stewart had completed a 90 day sentence in Salinas for drunkenness and it was his ninth arrest in five years' residence on the Peninsula. Two years ago, he spent six months in the county jail, convicted of battery charges brought against him by Joy Towmey. Stewart says he did not beat up his Joy Saturday night. He just slapped her with his open hand.

San Jose State has offered to conduct college credit courses, upper division, at Fort Ord if 20 students, military and civilian, can be rounded up per class. This will be the inspiration at a later date for an editorial in the Pine Cone on the theme, one is never too old, etc. etc. The editor is an authority on how an old, worn out, dilapidated brain can be freshened up by a little touch of college. She enrolled last fall in a course in astronomy in regular session at Monterey College (Monday, Wednesday, Friday, 9:00 to 10:00 a.m. or thereabouts.) She attended all the classes, filled up several note books with wisdom proffered by the instructor, did her home work every night, crammed like sixty for the mid-terms and final, and got an A in the course without having to work much more than twice as hard as her normal-age classmates. She subscribes to several astronomy magazines, and won't commit suicide for two years, no matter how high news print goes a ton, because the Pons-Brooks comet is due to arrive on its once in 70 years round in the Stage stars and Sunset School students, Toby Edson and Michael Elsen, compare cues during a rehearsal of Mister Bunt, Ira Remsen's play which is to be presented at the Forest Theater July 11-13. Michael plays the title role of Mister Bunt and Toby plays that of Dabs. For the footsteps both boys follow see story on this page.

1924 Mr. Bunt Cast, Grown Up And Full Of Dignity, Amused To Recall Incidents Of The First Production

In the summer of 1924 young and not-so-young Carmel took part in the premier production of Ira Remsen's fantasy, Mister Bunt. Now, as Mister Bunt, again under the direction of Blanche Tolmie, is being made ready for presentation at the Forest Theater on the second week end of July, early summer, 1952, as a new Owl blinks all-knowingly from the stage, as a new puckish Gyem, a new Irish Danny, a new Bunt appear, the question arises "What of the old?" There are many people to answer it.

Three Josselyns participated in Bunt's first appearance: Winsor Josselyn was the omniscient owl who holds classes in Silence and in Nothing and whose platter-size eyes open and shut to emphasize his wisdom; Talbert Josselyn was the Milkman depositing his wares in milk-shrines modeled after Carmel's own; and Lewis Josselyn kept his camera focused on the on-stage doings throughout the various phases of the production. His clearest memory of the Days of Bunt, says Talbert, is that of Ira Remsen's being shut up in the Josselyn home near the end of rehearsals, being given oversized sheets of butcher paper, a red crayon, and told to finish the script which up to that time Rem had been constantly rewriting. Shortly before dawn of the next day the play was finished and Rem given his freedom. He also remembers that Paul Flanders, playing the role of the Gateman, was so sorely distressed at having to chase several exuberant children on leave from their roles of fairies off the stage that he later met the youngsters downtown to treat

Viva La Fiesta! Curry Your Burro For A Valley Ride

Brush up on your Spanish if you plan to attend La Fiesta de la Raza at the Carmel Valley Country Club next week end. All the signs will be in Espanol, and if you want to be able to tell cervesa from helado or even beer from ice cream, you had better arm yourself with a few handy phrases for foreignors more practical than the usual where-is-the-hair-of-my-dog's-aunt variety.

The Fiesta begins at noon on Sunday, June 29, in an all-out red, white and green fashion, thanks to the Mexican Consulate in San Francisco, who sent down enough travel posters and miscellaneous Mexicana to maintain the southern spirit for a year. Count on Manuel Campos orchestra to spice the atmosphere with music, Clark Stable's educated equines who do everything but talk to people's brothers, a door prize fit for the finest stable of a yearling filly donated by Renee Poston to be given away, displays, free swimming with pool and water provided, and only suit and towel required, and a list of et ceteras that would lose itself on the next page. Admissions is free, fun is free, lookin' is free. Tastin' is another thing, and if you should be tempted, and you will be, by the offerings of the better than 30 booths which will comprise the Mexican market place, bring along an extra peso or two. Sponsoring the booths are as formidable a list of "worthies" as ever yet assembled all of a summer's day.

So don your sombreros and serapes, shout Viva la Fiesta and board the nearest burro bound for Plaza de la Carmelo Valley Country Club on June 29.

THE AFTERNOON'S NOT FOR BURNING

Fire Commissioner Donald Craig reminds householders and owners of vacant lots that though the dry grass season has arrived and controlled burning is in order, a permit, obtainable at the firehouse, is necessary for all outdoor fires except in incinerators, and trash burning, incinerator—confined or otherwise, must be done before noon. It's a city ordinance, in the interest of safety and smog prevention.

Casting Date Set For First Play In Golden Bough

Just at the Forest Theater this year will reach back more than a quarter of a century into its past to revive Rem Remsen's Mr. Bunt, so the restored Golden Bough Playhouse for its initial production will re-enact one of its greatest successes, Robert Sherwood's delightful comedy-drama, The Queen's Husband. The announcement was made yesterday by Edward Kuster, managing director for the Playhouse corporation.

Owing to the protracted general carpenters' strike and the resulting disruption of all subcontractor schedules, the date of the Playhouse opening has been delayed, but now Kuster, who will again direct The Queen's Husband, says that casting schedule will begin July 19 at the Playhouse, 3:00 p.m. "We are confident", he said this week, "that the new production will equal and even outshine that happy affair of twenty-one years ago. Aside from The Queen's Husband being a fine play, its pageantry and color and the use of the entire forty-foot stage, together with the forestages, will contribute to make it an ideal opening production. But we shall miss Galt Bell and Gloria Stuart and Sam Ethridge and Gertrude Bardarson and a dozen others of the old cast. There are only three of us still around—Dick Collins, Wayne Edwards and myself."

The Pine Cone of June 5, 1931, was enthusiastic in its praise of The Queen's Husband, "the brilliant opening of the summer season," commending it as a "stunning performance," and ending an elaborate review with the following:

"More power to Edward Kuster and his cohorts! They are building Carmel as we rejoice to see it built."

The Pine Cone of June 20, 1952, heartily subscribes to the same sentiments.

Water Company Asks For Interim Rate Increase

The two-day public hearing before the State Utilities Commission on the proposed water rate increase sought by the California Water and Telephone Company closed Tuesday with the Company's repeated request for an interim rate increase. The last such request, made at the public hearing held in May, had been denied.

Under the lead of Claude Rosenberg, attorney for the Water Company, and Kenneth Ferguson, chief counselor for the municipalities, witnesses for both sides presented technical and financial evidence attempting, on the part of the Water Company, to prove the existing need for the higher rate in order to effect improvements and to maintain effective service, and on the part of the municipalities, to show that such increase is not essential.

Eliot T. Jones, public accountant of Carmel hired by the municipalities stated that the Water

Forest Theater Guild Gets Cut Rate From City

Forest Theater Guild has received recognition for its labors. In consideration of the improvements which the Guild has effected on the Forest Theater property and the stimulus which it has given to Forest Theater productions, the Carmel City Council granted the Guild's request that the rent of the Theater be reduced. It was cut from $30 to $15 per performance.

At the special meeting of the Council held last Tuesday afternoon, an amendment to the building code which would control the excessive spread of car ports and bring them within the 40 per cent limit, was given its first reading. The salary ordinance, with the restrictive changes interpolated at the Council's last meeting, was given second reading.

Also at the meeting it was decided to make budget sessions open to the public and to invite each organization in the community to send representatives to these meetings. Further, the Council planned to begin inquiries to find a suitably qualified auditor to audit the city's books.

Other business: a resolution was passed to change the financial advisor's title to fiscal officer, and a resolution transferring $3100 from maintenance to general fund.

Rent Control Lifted, Effective, June 19

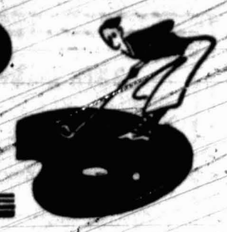

Word was received here yesterday that Tighe E. Woods of the Office of Rent Stabilization in Washington, D. C., had lifted rent control in the Carmel area, effective June 19. In commenting upon the announcement, Enos Pouratt, president of the Carmel Board of Realtors, said, "I am glad that the will of the citizens is recognized. I want to thank our city council. They should be congratulated and admired for their stand. We're going to give the County Board of Supervisors every opportunity to act accordingly in the unincorporated areas."

FOR THE NEWCOMERS

Daisy Bostick in her Then and Now Column has started a continued article on the feature page of this issue for the benefit of newcomers who have never seen a Carmel lantern, may have seen a milk shrine and not known what they were looking at, and are not aware that Carmel rose out of San Francisco's 1906 ashes. Old Timers will enjoy reading Daisy's For The Newcomers, too, just to make sure she doesn't "miss any bets."

ADULT SOFTBALL LEAGUE ACTION NEXT WEDNESDAY

A confident band of Carmel Firemen put their 1951 Championship on the block next Wednesday night as the Summer Adult League swings into action. The Firemen, under the careful guidance of Kenny Roberts, surprised the other teams last season by putting on a great stretch run to cop the league trophy. With the same lineup of champions who got the job done last year, it appears that the fire-fighters must be rated favorites for the 1952 crown. The Firemen have a sure-fire battery in Ken Roberts and Jack Montgomery. These lads proved to be tough medicine for opponents last season and have a year's experience under their belts now. A galaxy of power-hitters round out the Firemen team, including Gene Ricketts, Bill Giles, John Huddelson, Fred Mylar, Rip Belvail, George McElroy, Bernie Roberts, George Westcott, and Fred Warren.

Challenging the Firemen for the 1952 flag will be the Carmel Police, the Lions Club, and a new aggregation to the league, the Monterey Police. Fred Fehring, slugging outfielder, will guide the always-dangerous Lions Club nine, getting lots of help from Cliff Cook, Waldo Hicks, Chuck Dawson, Jack Giles, and coach Ernie Morehouse. The Carmel Police will be captained by Chief Klaumann who has banded together a smooth-working aggregation headed by Jim Kelsey, Bill Weeks, Joe Nicholson, and Andy Del Monte. From over the Hill, officer Harley Jenkins has a squad of Monterey and County cops who are itching for action against the Carmel aggregations.

First game at 7:30 next Wednesday night finds the Carmel Police mixing with the Monterey Police, and at 8:45 the Carmel Firemen will have at it against the Carmel Lions Club. Two special rules are observed in Adult League play, limiting players to those over 21 years and under 80, and requiring pitchers to use a bowling motion when delivering the ball to the plate.

OVERIN SHOWS PROFESSIONAL TALENT IN TRYOUT

Henry Overin, Carmel High's brilliant left-handed pitcher, took in the Oakland tryout camp this week and showed enough potential to be offered a professional contract with the Pacific Coast League club. Chief scout, George Kelly, took a long gander at the Padre lofty and shooed him to the main office for a talk with the big boss. The front office offered Overin a contract which slated him for duty in the Western International League, a Class A circuit in the Great Northwest. Manager Mel Ott will take a more careful look at the Carmel lefty when he throws to the Oakland hitters during bating practice this week. From his excellent showing in prep baseball and in the East-West All-Star classic, plus proven ability to win in the strong Mission League, it appears certain that the stocky curve-ball artist can cut the buck in professional ball.

MISSION LEAGUE EXPANDS TO SIX TEAMS

The Mission League baseball circuit picked up a new member for the second half chase which starts on June 29th when the Alisal Broncos applied for and received permission to try their luck in the fast semi-pro circuit. Operating as a five-team league during the first half, each team drew a bye every third week. The Monterey Merchants, led by the hardest working manager in baseball, Norm Gerdeman, made a shambles of the first half Mission League play by driving through all opposition without tasting defeat. A high-powered pitching staff of Jefry Bernstein, Henry Overin, John Baptista and Smoky Devlin, proved too much for opposing pitchers as the Merchants racked up seven straight victories over Santa Cruz, Watsonville, Salinas and the Navy Postgraduate School of Monterey. Monterey takes on the hapless PG School sailors at Monterey next Sunday, but expect to emerge with their undefeated record unsullied. The Navy has gone to the post seven times during the first half and have been on the short end of the score seven times.

CRICKETEERS TO INVADE SAN RAFAEL

Del Monte cricketers play an away game next Sunday against the Marin County Cricket Club at San Rafael. The week following, they will take on the San Mateo Club for a repeat match to be held on the San Mateo field. Last encounter of the two teams saw the Del Monte group defeat the favored San Mateans.

The balance of Sunday's game may be somewhat swayed by the fact that Saturday night the Marin Club is holding its annual din-

Carmel Foundation "Center" Plans Discussed At Quarterly Meeting; Ruth Sarett Is Executive Director

Carmel Foundation held a Quarterly Meeting of the Board of Directors on Thursday of last week, which was almost exactly three month from March 15, the day on which the Headquarters Office was opened and the Home Services offered to Carmel's older people.

At the meeting (open to all members and friends of the Foundation) the president of the Board, Capt. Archer Allen, reported on the activities of the Executive Committee during the last three months. Chief among these were making a new set-up for classes of membership to become effective January 1, 1953, the appointment of a permanent Executive Director and of an Office Secretary, and consideration of a plan for extending the offerings of the Foundation through the setting up of a center where Carmel's older people may gather for companionship and recreation or just to sit in the sun or by the fire. For this purpose the Foundation is seeking a house close to town suitable for both the center and the Headquarters office and in which the Executive Director can have a secluded place for the confidential conferences that are a large part of her work.

The Foundation feels very fortunate to have found Mrs. Ruth Sarett, who will become the Executive Director on July 1. A graduate of the University of Minnesota, with her Master's from Stanford, she comes from years of work with the Red Cross where she has been training home service workers. On September 15, Miss Alethea Bleecker, who is an expert filer, will become Office Secretary. She will set up and care for the Foundation filing system. Dr. Field will continue in the office for some months to help Mrs. Sarett and Miss Bleecker become acquainted with Carmel people and Foundation problems.

The Treasurer's report showed the Foundation financial situation to be satisfactory, with enough money available to round out the first year of Home Service work. Contributions for the 1952 activities are still being received from time to time.

The Executive Director reported on the developments of the last three months. Foundation clients have requested service mainly for someone to take responsibility for getting meals and keeping the house in order, for simple nursing, staying over night, shopping. In every case service was required for only a few days when emergency arose.

Much time has been spent helping clients plan their expenditures so that their money will be wisely used and thus made to meet their needs adequately. There have been frequent requests for information about rest homes and residence homes. Such information is being gathered as fast as time will permit.

The Executive Director was asked to speak on the plans for the center which she calls the Foundation Town House. Much interest in this plan was shown by those present. The many questions, comments and suggestions were helpful. Any further suggestions about the center will be welcomed at the Headquarters office which is in the Patterson Building on 6th at Dolores. If the center receives the backing of enough people it would be possible to start it early in 1953.

Balentine's Trial Is Set For June 26

Trial of T. R. Balentine charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor on May 6, has been set for June 26, city hall, at 10:00 o'clock in the morning.

Judge Ray Baugh of Monterey will preside in place of Carmel City Judge George P. Ross, who will sit for Baugh in Monterey during the Balentine trial.

Trial was set for earlier this month but difficulty in rounding up a full quota of jurors made postponement necessary. Out of the first list of 100 names, so many were deceased or had moved away only 15 were available. Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann is currently working on a second list.

Eben Whittlesey of the firm of Robison and Whittlesey will defend the case; Deputy District Attorney Edward K. Barnes, prosecuting.

PRE-SCHOOL ART

An exhibit of "Structure and Design in Pre-School Art" opens tonight at 8:00 o'clock at the New Group Gallery, 220 Olivier Street, in Monterey and will continue until Sunday, June 22. The exhibit has been arranged by Mrs. Rhoda Kellogg, director of the Golden Gate Nursery Association of San Francisco and author of several books on pre-school age children, and aims at bringing out a pattern of relationships between a child's experience and the shapes which his graphic activity assumes. This is intended to be a representative collection of children's work.

Recreation Notes

Jack Morris, recreation department golf instructor, welcomes the parents along with the kids for the Wednesday and Friday golf lessons at the high school football field. Jack has enough golf equipment on hand to handle 25 students in the class. There are short-handled clubs for the sprouts and regular size woods and irons for the adults. After a few lessons on the fundamentals, the golfers will spend a few sessions at the driving range before trying their newfound skills at the golf course.

Nancy Dassonville, Red Cross water safety instructor, can handle a few more prospective senior life-savers in her Wednesday and Friday classes. Anyone who is sixteen years old or more can enter the life-saving class which is held from 5 to 6 p.m. The late hour is designed to give those who work a chance to participate in this important activity.

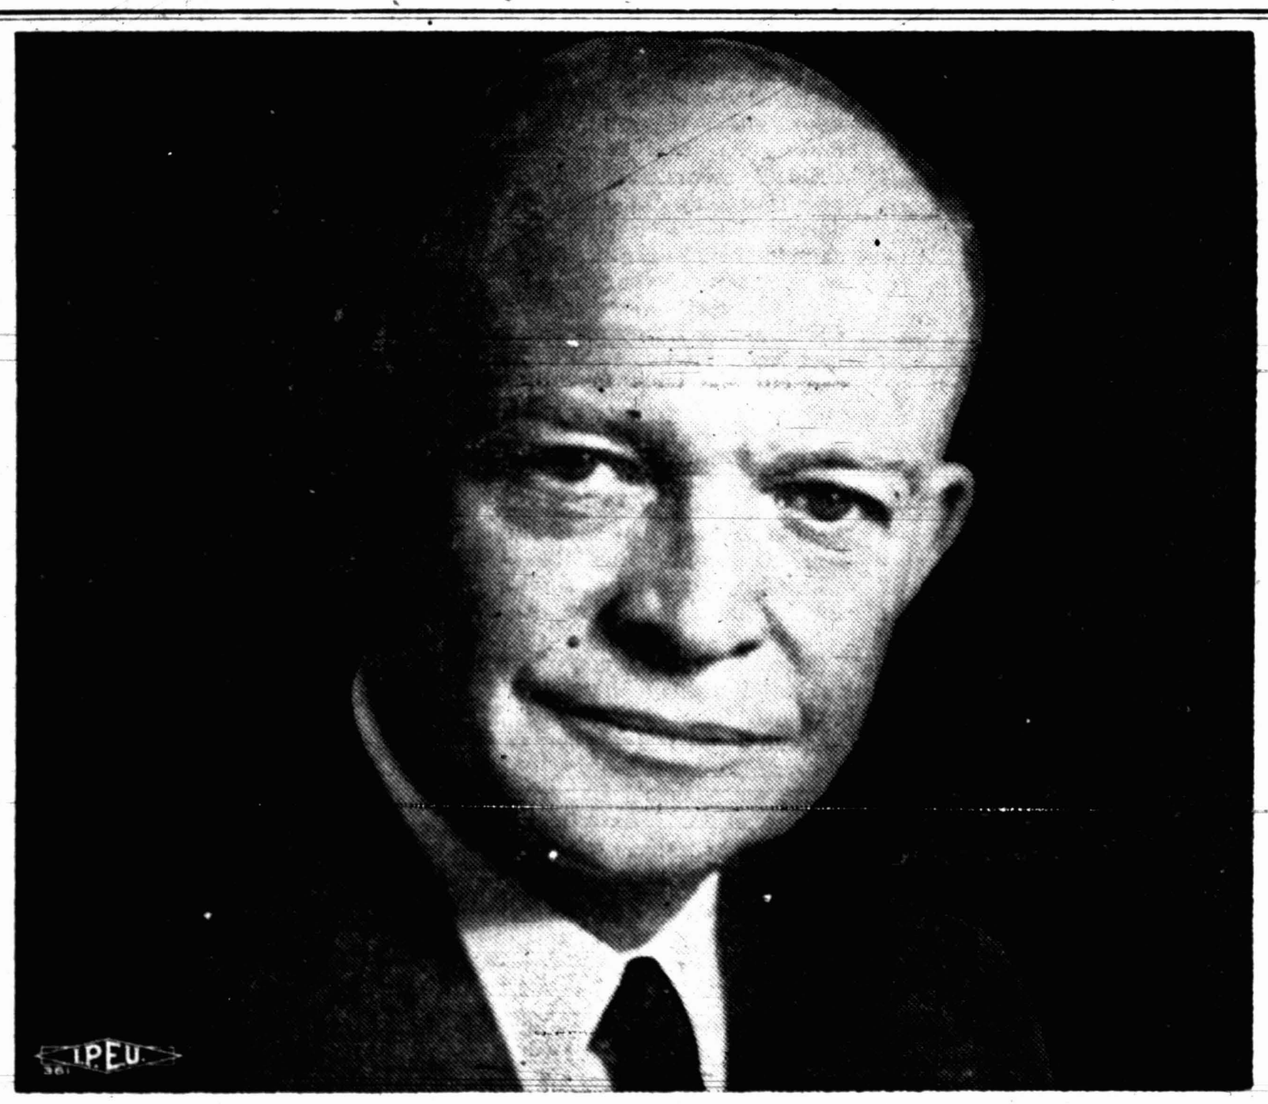

DANCING CLASSES CHANGED TO SUNSET LIBRARY

Helen Morgenroth's interpretive dancing group which was originally scheduled to meet at the Youth Center nursery room has been moved to the Sunset Library. The starting time for this activity has been set from 2 to 4 p.m.

PET SHOW AT WOODS SCHOOL PLAYGROUND THURSDAY

Thursday, June 26th has been set aside for a children's pet show at the Woods School playground. Kids in the Woods area who have dogs, cats, turtles, skunks, snakes, squirrels, or any other type of pet are urged to enter their pride and joy with Peg Miner, Woods playground director. In addition to the Pet Show, the Woods playground has scheduled a Junior Olympics and Circus for later dates.

Water Company Asks Interim Rate Increase

Company should have had an increased revenue of $133,918 last year and $140,000 this year. This amounts to a 20% increase. The Company's request was for a 43% increase.

Clayton Neill gave comparative figures on company costs and consumer rates in various cities and Zenas Potter presented a number of tables and charts, two of which were challenged by Rosenberg and found to be in error.

Presenting the Water Company's case were Alfred Burke of Chicago, Company utilities and financial expert, and Peter Nemzel, vice president and general manager of the company, both of whom were called for cross-examination by Ferguson.

The next three day hearing has been set for September 10-12 in Few Memorial Hall.

Monday's session began with testimony of the city officials, Peter Mawdsley, Carmel city clerk, leading off with the statement that if the company is granted the requested rate increase, the city's water bill will be $1,370 more than it is now, a raise of 34.3 per cent. Frank Fargo, deputy city manager of Monterey, said their increase would amount to $6,198.63 and would require a 2.6 cents raise in tax rate, 35.6% increase, Alfred D. Coons, Pacific Grove city manager, testifed that the Grove, heavy water used because of its pool and golf greens to keep up, would be subject to $3,741.18 increase, 33.19% of present cost, and would necessitate a 3.7 cents increase in tax rate. Question was raised by the board if some of the increase couldn't be taken care of by raising the pool admissions and golf fees; Coons volunteered that perhaps the sales tax could cover some of it.

summer of 1954 and one wouldn't want to miss it.

The thing for peninsula people to do this week end is to take in the Salinas Rodeo. It is going on now, parade every day at noon (wonderful for color film fans if it would only stand still) and the buckaroos go into action at 2:00 o'clock at the rodeo grounds. There will be the usual debate over the loud speaker as to whether the master of ceremonies should call it ro-DAY-o or RO-deo, and whatever is agreed upon, he'll call it the other way half of the time. It will not occur to anybody to compromise on Roundup.

There's a place to go every night this week end. Black Bart is running its last week at the First Theatre. Curse You Jack Dalton, in its second week at the Barn up the Valley, is rolling their ears down. At the Wharf, Oscar Wilde's Importance of Being Earnest opens tonight, and we're wondering if we'll find the cucumber sandwich nonsense in the first act so preciously whimsical, so witty and waggish, so enchanting, so engaging, as we did when we first became acquainted with it, aged sixteen.

Highlanders Burn At Prospect Of 20 Room Motel

Unanimous disapproval of a projected hotel in the Carmel Highlands was expressed by property owners at Monday night's meeting of the Highlands Association. They voted to protest before the County Planning Commission at its July 30 meeting, construction of the 20 room hostelry.

Building site, west side of Highway No. 1 and opposite the Highlands Inn, has been zoned for multiple use for 20 years and was at one time part of the Highlands Inn property. The Highlands Association members believe they have a valid objection in that inadequate provision has been made for parking, and that hotel patrons' cars would constitute a safety hazard to traffic on Highway No. 1.

Present to explain the plans of the structure was Gayle J. Jones of Jones and Wynkoop, Carmel architects. Owner is Harry T. Holsman of Chicago.

The Highlands advisory committee to the County Planning Commission will discuss the project Tuesday night and decide what recommendation to make to the county planners. Members of the advisory committee who have already expressed disapproval are Dr. R. A. Kocher and Dr. Henry S. Houghton. Other advisory members are Col. Alfred S. Balsam, Malcolm Millard and Hal Boyd.

Business of Monday night's meeting was preceded by a party to welcome home from Korea two Highlands Marines, Tom Silvear and Mark Smith.

The association voted to donate out of treasury $25 to the International scholarship fund at Monterey Peninsula College. Members made individual contributions also, among them N. J. Ambrogio who matched the association's $25 gift.

A small scale sabotage of the opposing team members—a thoroughly uncricketish sort of move, but highly favored nonetheless—is being plotted by the local boys. And probably also by the host club. Results may be interesting.

CLASSY SAN JUAN SOFTBALL TEAM AT SUNSET THURSDAY

Class A softball comes to Carmel for the first time this season next Thursday night when the San Juan Pearpickers invade the Sunset diamond. The San Juan team is one of the best in the area, holding victories over the strong Castroville Dons and the Watsonville Crossetti-Berman team. Opposing the vistors will be a gang of Carmel All-Stars headed by Gene Vndervort, Walt Frey, Bobby Updike, Bill Daniels, Bill Morton, and piloted by Jack Giles.

TENNIS TOURNEY

Racquet wielders from the Pebble Beach Tennis Club will take on a contingent from the Santa Barbara Biltmore Tennis Club tomorrow for a week end of competition and conviviality. The tennis tournament begins tomorrow; tonight a dinner is scheduled for the visitors at the Beach Club, tomorrow night a dinner dance at the Surf Room and on Sunday, the final day of the tourney, a buffet luncheon will be held at the Club.

YACHT RACE RESULTS

Kent Clark's Yacht Querida and John Geisen's Renegade won top honors at the season's first races for championship points held last Sunday by the Stillwater Yacht Club. In the first of the day's two races held at Stillwater Cove, Querida placed first with Chinita, owned by Gerrit Henry and skippered by John Downing second; First Today, owned and skippered by Colden Whitman, third; Geisen's Renegade, fourth; Dr. Curtis Gorham's Conchita, fifth; sixth William Mahar's Piper; and seventh Aha skippered by Sherry Henderson.

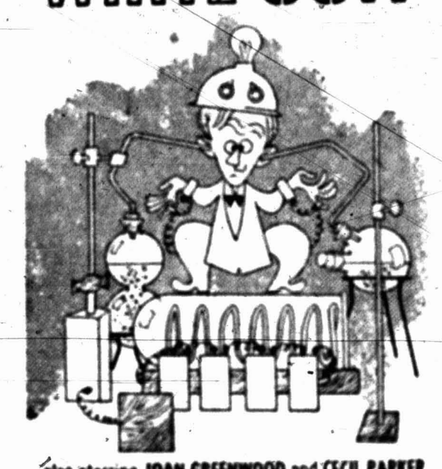

Coming in after Renegade in the second race were Querida, Chinita, First Today, Piper and Conchita.

These yacht races will be weekly features of the Stillwater Yacht Club's summer program. Anyone interested in sailing with the group should call Club Commodore, Ralph Buchan at 7-6528.

Taylor And Vial Get Woods School Job For $34,399.00

Taylor and Vial, Carmel contractors and builders, submitted low bid, $34,399 for construction of the multi-use room at Woods school, and were awarded the job, at the Carmel Unified School District board meeting Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

Ten other contractors offered bids: John Fratessa, Monterey, $37,498; Crescent Construction Company, Monterey, $37,913; Harold Geyer, Monterey, $37,977; Hicks Lumber, Salinas, $38,006; Jake Huizenga, Seaside, $38,200; M. J. Murphy, Carmel, $38,720; Monterey Peninsula Builders, Carmel, $38,732.86; Matt Glenday Construction Co., $38,823; Ross Trewhitt, $40,895; and F. V. Hampshire, Salinas, $43,180.

Contract provides that the class room portion be completed by September 6 (School starts September 10) and builders submitting bids were informed in advance that a penalty of $50 per day would be strictly enforced. More lenience is allowed for the kitchen portion.

The board authorized one of the alternatives, asphalt tile floor for $561 brining total cost to $34,960.

Other business: The board accepted with regret, resignation of Alfred Fry. He was appointed to fill out Mrs. Anita Dormody's unexpired term in November 1949; was elected to the board in 1950. His term expires in 1954. The board has not yet decided upon his successor.

Budget Controller Peter Mawdsley reported on a preliminary budget, saying that he believed the tax rate could be held to last year's $1.65 in spite of the $200 raise in teacher's salares, and $150 increase for non-certificated employees. An anticipated increase of $500,000 in assessed property values will cover the payroll hike.

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell reported receipt of a check for $2,657 from the federal government, bringing the total paid for children of military families attending Carmel schools to $5,314.79 for the year.

Miss Hazel Watrous was present at the meeting to ask the board that the old rate of $37.10 per night for auditorium rental at Sunset be maintained for the Bach Festival, instead of the newly established schedule of $60.00 per night. She said that the net profits for the Festival last year were $372.00. The board said they wanted some time to think it over.

June 23, 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon, was set for the next meeting, to work on the budget.

CARMEL UNINCORPORATED

Rezoning of the Hatton property at the Carmel Valley entrance for proposed commercial use will come up for discussion before Carmel Unincorporated which meets at 4:00 on Tuesday afternoon, June 24, in the Carmel High School cafeteria. Thomson Hudson will at that time present the plan drawn up by the Hatton family for the remodeling of the farm buildings now located on the south side of the Valley turnoff from Highway One, turning them to commercial use. Rent decontrol will also be discussed at the meeting.

Fulkersons, Former Natives, To Arrive First For Festival

Jean and Charles Fulkerson will be the first arrivals for Carmel's Fifteenth Annual Bach Festival. They arrive in time for the June 30 rehearsal, a week earlier than any of the other participants. This early arrival is due to the fact that Charles is to help Conductor Usigli with section rehearsals of the Chorus.

Jean Fulkerson, long known in Carmel as Jean Crouch, has played in every Festival but one, a member of the Cello section. The year she married Charles, she missed the Festival, but otherwise, Jean holds, along with Ralph Linsley, the record of "every Festival but one."

The Fulkersons live in Arcata, California, where Charles is associate Professor of Music in Humboldt State College.

WE put the price of this Buick in big type because we're proud of it.

It's the price of the six-passenger, two-door SPECIAL—ready to roll.

When you put this price against the local delivered prices of other cars that folks usually associate with Buick—you'll have a hard time finding a single one as low.

When you put this price against what you'll pay for cars with the reputation of being "lower priced"—you'll find why this Buick gives them such keen competition.

And—if you want to go in for extras—you can still add up what goes on the bill of sale of other cars and a Buick—you'll find out that Buick's an even greater buy.

We know that price is important to a lot of folks, especially with the price of groceries—and even baby shoes—where they are today.

But you also want some fun for your money—and that's where a Buick really shines.

Although I make regular trips to SARGANT'S HEALTH AND SPECIALTY FOODS for diet items, it occurred to me the other day that this is a fine place to get some of the choicest delicacies. The candies and nuts are really special, as are the tins of black olives, cocktail sausages, French onion soup and natural brown rice. For people who crave sweets but want them in a natural form — well, just try the marvelous dried fruits, plump to bursting with flavor because they're top-grade at SARGANT'S. You'll enjoy the tempting unusual fruit juices, too, including fig, black cherry and prune nectar.

Our household, with not one but two doctor's diets to follow, relies regularly on SARGANT'S especially prepared foods. Artichoke noodles, for instance, bring welcome variety to one member's salt-free regime. Dieting or not, you'll like the sweet butter and delicate saltless margarine. Many of the SARGANT items, canned without salt, have no added sugar, either, and are a godsend to a weight-watcher — me! Besides a selection of highest quality concentrated vitamins, SARGANT'S also has a wide choice of that nutrition essential, cereals and grains free of chemical preservatives. You'll find many more delicious, wholesome edibles at SARGANT'S HEALTH AND SPECIALTY FOODS, on Sixth Street near the fire station. The phone is 7-7753.

Choosing baby girls' gifts at the CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP on Ocean Avenue is such frilly pleasure, it took my nephew's birthday—he's pushing one—to reveal the rollicking fun of finding tiny boys' presents here. For beachwear, I got him a white terrycloth sunsuit with an adjustable belt. It's a diaper cover lined with soft polka-dotted white-and-red and appliqued, in the same cotton, with an absurd elephant squarely over the rump! Just as practical and washable for "town wear" are red-piped, plastic-lined diaper pants and matching white seersucker jacket. At the CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP, our one-year-old's Grandma got him an "all-boy" plastic bib-apron, hand-painted with a colorful clown just like the matching stuffed boy! Other washable pairs feature an elephant and a giraffe, all contributing to mealtime contentment. You'll find plenty of high fashion for the lowest-age bracket males at the CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP, and it's designed for easy care by mothers, too.

I went in search of casual summer jewelry this week, and at the VAGABOND'S CORNER in the Pine Inn Gardens, I fell onto a fashion "news flash"! It's seashells, starfish and sea horses—tiny real ones—gilded or silvered into enchanting pins and earrings. They're lightweight to wear, and lighthearted to enjoy. In another jewelry exclusive, Carmel-favorite hand-molded sterling and abalone pearl pine and earrings, VAGABOND'S CORNER has some charming new designs to add to the beloved pixies—tropical fish and leaping dolphins, butterflies and birds. Reasonably priced, too — adaptable, unadorned abalone earrings, like buttons from the rainbow, are just $1.95. Incidentally, I find that Eastern friends are rapturous at receiving these original VAGABOND'S CORNER jewelry pieces as gifts. They—and you — also will welcome scarves from here, summer-gay imported silk for as little as 49 cents!

Even if you're utterly devoted to the FRENCH CAFE'S steaks and chops, or chicken roasted French style, next time be a "plunger" in adventurous eating by ordering the day's Specialty of the House. Often it's a completely perfect roast of beef, pork or leg of lamb — sometimes a stew as only a French cook can compose one. And Germaine can! "I can't tell you the day ahead which it will be," she explained to me in her captivating imported English, "it depends on what I feel like cooking." And whatever her culinary artist's mood calls for, as the evening's table d'hote entree at the FRENCH CAFE, it will be one of the most memorable dinners you'll ever savor. The restaurante is open until nine in the evening now. Myself, I like to start the day at the FRENCH CAFE, too, with midmorning coffee when the red door opens on Dolores Street at ten. It's such a pleasant, relaxed atmosphere, these few square yards of transplanted France.

At this season of travel and visiting, gift baskets of food from LE GOURMET ET LES CADEAUX are a wonderful "thank you" to hosts or "bon voyage" to friends. You can even "see them off" in New York through LE GOURMET'S Telefood service — food by wire. But you'll love making the choices of LE GOURMET delicacies for nearer-home giving. Start filling the beautiful, usable baskets from the connoisseur's selection of dessert cheeses and imported and domestic wines, then airtight tins of English biscuits, in dozens of tea and cocktail varieties by Carr's, Peek Freen and Huntley & Palmer. Add delicious Padre Trails salad dressings and marvelous mustard sauce, originated by LE GOURMET'S new owners, and luscious California fruits, dried, glaceed or preserved. Just for fun—since LE GOURMET is right on the Ocean Avenue side of the Pine Inn, and better than ever—get yourself a present. Anyway, read the labels on the Kettle Cove products (they're new on the West Coast), then try and turn your back on them!

EVERYBODY LIKES TO SHOP IN CARMEL

Then And Now . . .

By DAZE

ADDRESSED TO NEWCOMERS

Late settlers in Carmel may have some curiosity and interest in its traditions, its customs in the early days and how it happened that there ever was a Carmel. Let's go back three hundred and fifty years when the first white men, Sebastian Viscaino and his crew, sailed into the Bay of Monterey, landed and took possession of this vast land comprising six of our present states and parts of three others in the name of King Philip of Spain. Two Carmelite friars were with the party. They wandered over the hill to the little valley on the south and named it Carmelo in honor of their religious order.

Viscaino and his party left without making a settlement but a century and a half later Father Junipero Serra arrived with the bold adventurer Don Gaspar de Portola who made a permanent settlement in Monterey while Serra established the Royal Presidio Chapel there and later with the help of the Indians built a Franciscan Mission where the Carmel river meets the sea. The name of the Mission is San Carlos de Borromeo de Carmelo. Years later when the musical Spanish language was displaced by the terse clipped American speench the last letter of Carmelo was dropped and it became Carmel Mission.

THE VILLAGE IS FOUNDED

At the beginning of the present century James Frank Devendorf and Frank Powers bought a large tract of land and established a village which they hoped would attract artists and writers—and it did. The promoters named it Carmel for the Mission which lies at its southern boundary.

The fire and earthquake of 1906 demolished most of San Francisco and there was a big migration of artists to Carmel. The settlers helped each other and built little redwood cottages snuggled under the trees. There was at first no electricity, gas or telephones. Cooking was done on kerosene stoves; they lighted the houses with candles and oil lamps; they heated with fireplaces which contained coils for heating the water for baths and cooking. Life was very primitive. There were no good roads—just winding lanes through the trees which served for pedestrians and horse-drawn carts and buggies to travel from place to place.

The business section of the village consisted of a half-dozen hastily constructed redwood shacks to house the merchants who served the small community of people. Along with the artists and laborers came elderly couples who wished to retire and live in tranquil contentment and as the town grew, more merchants and laborers came with their families; soon there were realestaters and others who saw opportunities for money making.

EARLY DEVELOPMENT

Among the very early business pioneers were Mike Murphy, builder extraordinary; William Dummage, plumber; Dock Beck, druggist who closed up his place every afternoon and went home for a nap, putting a notice on his door to that effect, Stella Guichard who sold pins, needles and other notions, Delos Curtis, candy merchant who had long lines of people waiting once a week to buy his particular brand of molasses candy, the Leidig brothers who dispensed canned goods, staples and fresh vegetables at their grocery, the Swenningers who sold marvelous homemade bread and pastry over their bakery counter, Louis Slevin who combined a stationery store with the post office and was adventurous enough to take a chance and secure six private boxes with the hope that they could all be rented. Mrs. Rose de Yoe had the first real estate office.

Among the pioneer writers and artists were Mary Austin, Ferdinand Burgdorff, Sydney Yard, M. de Neale Morgan, Alice MacGowan, Grace MacGowan Cooke, Jimmy Hopper, Fred Bechdolt, John Kenneth Turner, Michael Williams, Herbert Heron and the immortal George Sterling, William Rose Benet and Sinclair Lewis.

These people were merry, original and liked to play as well as to work. They had street fairs, Dutch markets and indulged in all sorts of nonsense. And along with the business element it was a gay happy family. Living was cheap—no city clothes necessary, food inexpensive. When anyone sold a story or a painting everyone went on a jamboree. A spaghetti dinner with red wine, followed by dancing to a wheezy phonograph and a trip to the beach at midnight to gather around a big bonfire for story telling and chatter. Home for breakfast and then back to the easels and typewriters.

STRANGE CUSTOMS

The milkman made his rounds in the early morning and deposited his product in the milk shrines—little redwood boxes placed on trees or on upright stakes, one in each block, and divided into compartments with each customer's name printed on the back of the box. In the morning there was much activity trekking to the shrines. Men and women in bathrobes flopping in the breeze going after their milk supply. There are still many of these shrines. I have one in which the milkman places my milk and cream and the newsboys the daily papers.

Nowadays the company sends out monthly bills but back in the old times we deposited our dimes in the empty bottles, carried them to the shrines in the evening and in the morning a fresh quart of milk awaited us. Anyone inclined to get something for nothing might well have raided those shrines and got quite a haul. But there is no record that it ever happened.

As for doorbells no one had the conventional type but a crude cowbell was hung at many a door. The visitor jangled it to let the occupant know that a caller had arrived. Musical gongs and tinkling chimes were sometimes used. Mary Austin had her cowbell inside the house. A long cow's tail hung outside and when it was pulled vigorously the noise inside was raucous and demanding.

The knocker was also popular. On one door hung an old shoe with its heel to beat the tattoo. At another there hung a huge iron key in a ring which when pounded on the door could make a good bit of noise.

Carmel front doors were usually adorned with a pad and pencil. They were a great convenience in social intercourse for there were no telephones and if you had trudged over sandy roads to find that your friend was out you could write a note to say that you had called. Sometimes the occupant of the house wrote on the pad that the key was under the mat. One front door appendage was a large brush with which you were supposed to clean your shoes before entering.

There were no street lights but everyone enjoyed wandering through the forest when the moon was full. At other times night roaming was quite a problem. A Carmel lady of inventive genius solved it. She took an old tomato can, punched a hole in its side and pushed a candle through the aperture. Inside the can the wick burned steadily protected from the wind; the part of the candle sticking out of the can formed the handle by which to hold the contrivance. Gleefully other Carmelites seized on this invention. They called it a "big" or "miner's wick" and found it entirely efficient in guiding them safely around the roots and holes which trapped the unwary. Later came the more elaborate Carmel lantern made of a lamp chimney set over a candle which was fastened to a small round disk and carried by a wire handle. Modern flashlights and street lighting have now taken the place of the old bug and the Carmel lantern but some of the loyal citizens still use them.

(To be continued next week)

INTO WHAT COUNTRY

Into what country does he go
Who closes the last gate?
What fields are they whose herbage he must tread?
Even as a hunter going forth at dawn
Calls to his hounds and silence answers him
So shall he pause and wonder and draw breath.

He shall go forth into the lifting day
Forgetful of his dream;
So shall he enter and become at last
That breath of leaves, speech of the wind,
Silence within the dream
Whose beauty nurtured him.

UNFAMILIAR ASPIRATION

wet streets reflecting colored lights are dark blue with late before morning night.
troubled faces reflect below feet.

impossibly felt, hidden somewhere, perhaps in the wetness lights reveal desire for peace.
rain freshly dances off wet faces.
rain too perhaps desires peace.
unfamiliar aspiration thru all evolution smothered as love is smothered by hate.

POINT LOBOS RESERVE

By KEN LEGG

When the grass is turning brown and it is harvest time, the third species of brodiaea (B. ixioides) is seen, and it appears to be well named "the harvest brodiaea" or golden brodiaea.

Either seems to be a good name, for it is golden, and it also blooms during harvest time.

The short-stemmed brodiaea is still around and a few last Blue Dicks can be seen but neither can count its numbers as does the golden one, for it is exceedingly abundant any place where grasses grow. All the meadows, along the roadways, and other open places support a goodly crop from May 1 through June.

The main stem is about twelve inches long and rises, usually straight and unbranched to a point about an inch from the flower. Here, stemlets branch in all directions and each holds a single, yellow flower, shaped a great deal like the other brodiaeas. These heads probably average about six flowers loosely spaced and not clustered as in Blue Dicks. Single blossoms, straw yellow or sometimes just a bit darker, have a one-fourth inch calyx-cup divided into six petal-like parts, spreading wide and flat. One noticeable feature of the harvest brodiaea is the brown line which is a mid vein on the under side of each sepal. This is more prominent on unopened buds, for then they point upward, and one does not need to look beneath the petal to see it.

This is the only yellow brodiaea which we have in the Reserve. In other parts of the State, a similar-looking plant called golden-stars is found, but it is a different genus of plants.

Leaves of the golden brodiaea are also difficult to see, for by the time the flower is at its best, the leaf has turned brown and reclines among other plants which are dying, too, for the season.

FAR EAST COMMAND

Lt. Col. Bruce C. Cator, former resident of Carmel, has been recently appointed Air Inspector of the Japan Air Defense Force, a major Far East command which is charged with the air defense of Japan and adjacent waters.

Mrs. Cator and her daughter Karen, now living in Benicia, will join Lt. Col. Cator in Japan as soon as transportation and housing permit. During their country-hopping career with the service, the Cators lived for some time in Carmel before Lt. Col. Cator's transfer to Colorado from whence he proceeded directly to Japan in February of this year.

Already to his credit are the Distinguished Flying Cross with three oak leaf clusters, the Presidential Unit Citation and the European Theater Medal with ten bronze and two silver stars.

Black Bart Winds Up This Week End At The First Theatre

But three more performances remain for Black Bart at California's First Theatre, State Monument, Monterey. The absorbing story of the stage-robber, who was known as a wealthy mining-engineer, with many friends, will play tomorrow and Sunday nights, June 21, 22, and for the last time on Saturday night, June 28. William Shepard, director, plays the title role.

Producers Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous announce Way Down East as the new show, scheduled to open on July 3. Rhea Diveley, who has returned from her world cruise, is directing the production.

Pine Cone Offers 50 Percent Aid In Naming U. C. Colts

A dispatch from the University of California Aggie College at Davis says that C. E. Howell, professor of animal husbandry, has hit a snag.

It's his job to name the colts born on the University farm so they can be registered property as thoroughbreds.

"At first Howell accepted the assignment with freshman enthusiasm," reads the dispatch. "Such names as Golden Bear, Searchlight, and California Alyce came easily. But Howell is quick to point out that was all some 32 years and 227 colts ago."

He has named horses after college presidents, faculty members, national associations, flowers, California, farmers, relatives, coeds and his department's secretary, the dispatch adds. At present he is five names behind and with four more colts arriving this spring and summer, he's open to suggestions.

Pine Cone believes in lending aid whenever possible in a good cause, so we offer to Professor Howell the suggestion that he name his colts after those California football coaches who have succeeded in getting California teams into the Rose Bowl. Then there is Ky Ebright, who has taken more than one California crew to the Olympics; Nibs Price, who has done the same service for California basketball. Then, if Professor Howell will lick his thumb and riffle through the Golden Book of California Football, he can pick out a few distinguished names like Brick Muller, Tut Implay, through the Gills and the Dixons right up to Les Richter and Company. That should take care of the boy colts.

But what about the girl colts?

ways to be a friendly telephone neighbor

If yours is a party-line, your telephone neighbors will consider you a real friend if you'll keep these simple points in mind: Try not to tie up the line with lengthy conversations. That way you won't miss important incoming calls. Ask the youngsters to be considerate, too. When they remember that others may be waiting to use the line they're being good party-line neighbors. Always be sure you hang up properly after calling. These simple suggestions mean still better service . . . because they give every one a better chance to receive and make calls.

emergency calls may arise while you're on the line. If a telephone neighbor breaks in and explains the emergency, it's always thoughtful to hang up and complete your call later.

Kippy's Off for Big City

Kippy Stewart says that the time has come for her to be off to San Francisco and up to a few days of deviltry. So Kippy's column, The Time Has Come, will be missing from this week's issue of the Pine Cone. Green-thumbed gardeners will have to resort to spray and subterfuge until Kip is back in her seat of authority next week.

Cum Laude Graduate

Basil Allaire graduated cum laude from Santa Clara University last Saturday, June 14, with a major in pre-med. Basil, son of Mrs. Charles W. Allaire and 1948 graduate of Carmel High School, also was recipient of the University's Orella Prize, a cash award given the student who has attained the highest average in scientific subjects in the College of Arts and Sciences during his junior and senior years.

Santa Clara marks the midway point for Basil whose next step is on to medical school at the University of St. Louis in Missouri, a minimum of four additional years of study.

Even more immediately, he is off camping in Yosemite for two weeks with his family.

Machado Musicale

Angie Machado's advanced students put two pianos to the test last Sunday at an informal recital for their parents and friends. Ravel's Mother Goose Suite for two pianos and a second piano part to Mozart's C Major Sonata written by Grieg brought the students' full powers and prowess to the fore. Also on the program were selections from the works of Beethoven and Chopin.

On the business end of the keyboard were Renee Myette, Laurel Martin, Arnold Da Vigo, Anthony Da Vigo, Mary Louann Miller, and Donald Martin.

LSJU Graduates Carmel Eight

Graduated from Stanford University last Sunday, June 15, were eight Carmelites, among them two receiving advanced degrees and a third graduating Magna Cum Laude and a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

John Rogers Blinks, son of Hopkins Marine Station director Professor L. R. Blinks and Mrs. Blinks, was graduated from the Faculty of Humanities and Sciences with a B.A. in biological sciences. He also wears a Phi Bete key awarded him in his senior year. A member of Carmel High's class of 1948 John completed work at Stanford last summer and has already to his credit one year at Harvard Medical School. In between a full scholastic sechedule, John will put his academic bent to good use as assistant cook on a Sierra Club pack trip into the High Sierra this summer.

Also with a B.A. in biological sciences, Betty Plaxton, another Carmel High School product, now plans six weeks of study at the University of California's Berkeley campus and then a year in the California Medical Center in San Francisco which will qualify her as a medical technologist. Betty spent one year at Monterey Peninsula College before transferring to Stanford. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Plaxton.

Also in humanities and sciences, Gail Roy Fraties, son of former police chief Roy Fraties and a 1948 Carmel High graduate received his B.A. with a major in political science.

From the School of Education, Thomas Everett May Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. T. E. May, received the B.A. for which he completed work last year; and Lloyd Ralph Miller, member of the faculty of Carmel High School, was awarded his M.A.

Rod Dewar, in the pre-legal curriculum, received his B.A. from the School of Law. On the Stanford campus, Rod was a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity and of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. He is another of Carmel High's illustrious 1948ers and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Dewar.

Graduate work in geology—unless the Army has first say—is planned by Stephen Brooks, son of Mrs. Virginia Brooks, who received his B.S. from the School of Mineral Sciences on Sunday. Steve is currently at Army Artillery School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, for six weeks of training with his ROTC unit.

And number eight, William Vernon Crowley of Carmel was graduated from the Stanford Business School with his degree of Master of Business Administration.

Naval Reservists Cruise

Some where at sea between San Francisco and Manzanillo, Mexico, are four salts from Carmel learning the essentials of marine life on a two weeks cruise with other naval reservists from the western area. Manzanillo, the farthest port of call, is 1500 miles south of San Francisco. The trip is being made aboard three destroyer escorts, the USS George Johnson, Grady and Thomas F. Nickel.

Two of the boys, John O'Shea, son of Mrs. Louise O'Shea, and Legare McNeill, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. McNeill, will have a week's vacation between their return from the cruise and their beginning of six weeks training at Reserve Officer Candidate School in Long Beach. Active service with the Navy has been deferred for both, allowing them to go on with college careers, John to San Jose State and Legare to the University of California at Berkeley, where they will be members of Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps, and will be commissioned as naval ensigns upon graduating in two years. John and Legare graduated earlier this month from Monterey Peninsula College.

A third reservist, Peter Berg, whose wife, Sally, and parents, Col. and Mrs. Sexton Berg live in Carmel, also graduated their year from MPC. The fourth member of the cruise crew is Max Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hodges, who has been putting in reserve time for the past four years. Max graduated from MPC in 1950 and has since been working at his father's riding academy and doing landscape gardening.

Musicians Installed

Wade Parks was installed as president of the Monterey County Music Teachers' Association at a dinner held last week. Out-going president, Mrs. Irene Graham was presented with the president's pin and a door-knocker in lieu of the gavel she has been wielding throughout the year.

Installed with Mr. Parks, who is on the roster of soloists with the Monterey County Symphony for next season, are Mr. E. C. Hopkins, vice president; Mr. G. LeBeck, financial secretary; and Mrs. Alice De Riems, corresponding secretary.

Following the dinner and ceremonies, Mrs. Edna Milar sang selections by Carl Lowe and Robert Schumann and Dorothy Hutchings, a pupil of Robert Forbes, played the First and Second Arabesques by Debussy.

Valley Column

Editor's Note: Valley Column starts on page 1 this week with page 1 news; Fiesta De La Raza.

Hush, hush, whisper who dares; a new Christopher Robin is saying his prayers. Except that the prayers sound more like a lung-bursting bawl and the Robin is a Robinson, it could be Winnie The Pooh's bosom friend who is soon to take up residence pool-side at the CV Country Club where his mother and father, Lois and Big Bob, are most often found. Christopher arrived at 11:08 on Wednesday morning, June 18, at the Peninsula Community Hospital. If it had been 11:09 reports Big Bob, the youngster would have found a father with one finger completely chewed off. As it is, Dad is just minus a cuticle and also minus his main concern which was that the baby would arrive on his own Friday, the 13th, birthday depriving Bob of his exclusive claim to attention on that day.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Nordlinger of Pleasantville, New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson of Sacramento.

Lorraine and Edward Marcucci will have front door delivery on their new coach and four with New Yorker Dean Marcucci, son and chauffeur, handing the keys over to them. Dean, associated with the New York office of American Arabian Oil, will stop in Detroit this week long enough to pick up the car his parents have ordered and will proceed at prescribed speed in a straight line to California for two weeks of vacationing with his family. According to Dean's dictates, those weeks include fishing, some relative visiting, and a good deal of lying in the sun on the Marcucci's patio. Allowing for a few fuel stops, he should arrive soon after July 1.

The nether end of the Valley now houses four Clarabuts where before there were only three. Nicole Roxanne, born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on June 9, to Mr. and Mrs. Noel Clarabut, is steeping herself in the role of prima donna which she plays very well being both prima and donna. The Clarabuts make their home with his mother, Mrs. Helene Clarabut while Noel is stationed at Fort Ord. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Druhe of Orinda.

Curse You Jack Wins Critic's Zany Award

Curse You Jack Dalton is right good entertainment. Those who have already sat in on an evening at the Barn Theater and suddenly discovered themselves cat-calling, pelting the stage with a slow-curved wad of paper, drowning out actors' cues with all but forgotten heckling techniques, joining in a community sing without a trace of the usual self-consciousness, cursing, coaching, coaxing, and nudging the man on the left who probably is a stranger to make sure he hasn't missed a point, can bear willing witness to its aspirations achieved.

A lot of people have put a lot of work into Jack but what comes out on the other side of the footlights is that they have also had a good deal of fun in so doing. Curtain to curtain (and a fancy one it is, too) Jack and the accompanying Community Center Olio and Play Party are lighthearted. On such few occasions as proceedings become too heavy for the taste of the paying guests, they provide their own background of running commentary that would shake lesser troopers from their steady purpose. The resulting balance is delightful. Also, the aim of several members of the audience, opening night ones at any rate, is close to deadly and gives rise to suspicion that they may have been out practicing behind the Barn.

Bob Bratt and By Ford, possessed of two of the most ideally versatile dead pans west of Cachagua, do a good bit of the show's pacing. Another veteran, Ruth McElroy, might well be added to complete the triangle. But still, the show's success is wrapped up in the energies and enthusiasm—not to mention talent — of the Babes on the Boards who, as finished products, don't have much to learn from anybody about the firmer points of stage effects.

As the slighted sister of hero Jack, Patty Trevvett is not above some scene stealing; and Lorraine Marcucci, billed as an aristocratic matron who has a heart of stone, maintains the aristocrat, the matron, and the heart of stone among her romping fellows. The financial report on the somewhat disastrous progress of the Community Center Project was given straight faced and with an air of how can all this happen to me by the Community Center president Charles Nason. Mary McElroy singing It's the Sandman, the seven-man Floradora Sextette who need have done nothing other than simply appear (in fact they don't do much else) to rock the house, the Cachagua Cuties: Betty Carr, Audrey Cordrey, Judy Brandt and Mary Jane Wolter, followed by their male counterparts, the Cachagua Cooties, and Rick Masten and Jim Hare cavorting through the review-styled P.O. Review written by Rick and Bill Pierce are all high-spirited and highly successful.

In short, Jack and company are not to be damned with the faint praise of awfully good for amateur theatricals; they are good for any sort of theatricals and to deny oneself the pleasure of settling down with a bag of peanuts (courtesy A. Levy and J. Zentner) to have a look at this here much-tooted Variety Show is roughly equivalent to a five-year olds having said no thanks to a visit to the three-ring circus.

The show will run tonight, tomorrow night and will close with Sunday's performance at the Barn Theater. Eight-thirty curtain and tickets available from Herb Brownell in the Valley, Leo Tanous in Carmel and Sports and Hobbies in Monterey.

And a final word of thanks from both ends of the Valley to the Carmel Valley Kiwanis and the Pasatiempo Club for sponsoring, and to the few and the many for sparking Curse You Jack Dalton. All have done themselves proud.

—Ann Fraser

A delayed graduation dance, end of first week of vacation, or simply Monday June 16 — whatever the excuse, the young people had a party this week. On the veranda of Montt Hitchcock's home, eagle-nested above Robles del Rio, Paul Bellemans entertained a dozen of his age-mates who danced out the better part of an evening. The party bore a semi-formal tag which, as always, applies the formal part to the girls and the semi to the boys. On hand for fox-trotting and soft-drink-sipping were Marilyn Marrs, Diane Redding, Mimi Wolf, Julie Paddock, Alex Nason, Lynn McMath and Jim O'Dell, Dell Redding, Willis Lyon, Paul Taylor, Pat Irwin and Frans Brazil.

Barbara and Ed Haber have a record for getting things done in the United Nations Building that UN members themselves might well envy. The Habers, by the simple expedient of looking as if they knew what they were doing, wove in and out of a number of doors otherwise closed to the uninitiated during their visit to the famous glass-enclosed building recently raised on New York's East Side. Maintaining the look of dignitaries, they lunched in the delegates' dining room and attended an afternoon conference session complete with the UN's educated head-sets trained to speak in any one of a dozen languages. The only disappointment was that the conference chiefly concerned itself with what matters would be discussed and very little with the actual discussing of them.

In Washington, D. C., the Habers took capital tours and sat in on a House of Representatives meeting which, since Representatives are largely scattered to all corners of the country on pressing business of their own, was left to the custodians and to one or two Congressmen who seemed during the Habers' eavesdropping to enjoy filibustering one another.

The couple returned last week to the Valley after more than a month's absence.

Autograph seekers had only as far as Los Laureles Lodge to go this week end in their search for famous marks by famous men. Barn Theater celebraties — cast and crew—descended to the Lodge for a cast party given by Herb Brook after Friday's opening night. As they repeated both the performance and the party on Saturday and Sunday nights, the Lodge's able hostess, Shirley Smith, is slightly vague as to what went on when and protests that she didn't even have time to take notes.

The buffet table was spread for the troops and troopers and the self-provided entertainment picked up where the final curtain of Curse You Jack had left off. Herb and Shirley gave a folk-dancing demonstration and Bob Bratt joined them to turn it into a soft-shoe routine. The Bratt also gave some of his skits and sketches in-

Skunks and Singing

Thirteen knapsackers set out Saturday morning for a week end of backpacking into Pine Valley and included as necessary baggage Mary-Stewart Hoopes's new baritone ukulele and as unnecessary camp followers six junior-sized skunks. Miss Hoopes, Earl Beverton of Carmel and Walt DeRome of Pacific Grove were the trail-browsing trio who led ten San Francisco members of the Sierra Club into Pine Valley in the Los Padres Forest. For the San Franciscans, this was the third trip into the Sierra Santa Lucia within the month. Starting from China Camp, the group went en masse to Pine Valley and then went their separate ways, some to Fine Falls and others to Pine Ridge. Dinner, courtesy the visitors, was worthy of white tie and tails although dungarees were a more satisfactory substitute. Mary-Stewart's new ukulele which had gained 15 pounds in weight during the day's hike, made up for every ounce of its inconvenience when it was brought into play after dinner.

Sunday, the hikers took the Pine Ridge trail route back to China Camp, a longer way but enhanced by glimpses of the distant Ventanas and closer association with the wildflowers still in bloom in the mountains. Back at base, the skunks attached themselves to the party and all six of them seemed more than eager to be accepted as boon companions. Under the impression that so young a skunk couldn't have had time to discover his natural method of defense, Mary-Stewart adopted one long enough for a photograph to be made assuring proof positive of her daring—and she didn't get caught.

Beach Fires

Week-end weather brought out more than an average number of Great Outdoorsers who struck up blazes from Pebble Beach to Point Lobos, filling the air with the smell of hamburgers, well-done, and the sound of ukuleles, not always so well-done. The formula is roughly the same as, for instance, that followed by the W. T. Mahars, the G. B. Hendersons, Sherry Henderson and Dennis Mahar at Stillwater Cove on Saturday night. The hamburger-plus end of the affair was looked to by Mrs. Mahar. Deceptively simple, she says; the not-too-hard work of firebuilding done by the gentlemen in attendance, and the ukulele playing in the hands of Dennis and Sherry who are masters at telling fourth string from third base. The hours are latter-day daylight and dusk and the results are time-tested and most-often termed "wonderful."

Picnic with Feathers

It was supposed to be a family picnic that Laidlaw Williams of Carmel Highlands, Rangers Francis Williamson and Ken Legg of Point Lobos Reserve took their wives and children on to Chew's Ridge, Thursday, last week, but naturalists know no union hours. At China Camp, without even trying, they found, "western tanagers, male and female, feeding young; wood pewee on the nest, and a black-throated grey warbler building a nest."

Month-End Marriage

With her marriage to Pat Dormody little more than one calendar page away, Betty Hendricks is being given considerable help in heaping up hope chests by friends intent on showering the bride-to-be. Most recently, Betty has been honored by Miss Nancy Pullman at a kitchen shower given at the Pullman home, and by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard Hendricks of Pacific Grove, at a catch-all miscellaneous shower.

Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Hendricks of Carmel, and Patrick Dormody, son of Dr. and Mrs. Horace Dormody, will be married in an afternoon ceremony on Sunday, June 29, at the Del Monte Chapel, with the Reverend Bernard Lovgren officiating, and the members of the immediate family in attendance.

Pasture Party

Dr. Walter Fisher, professor emeritus of Stanford University, was honored on the occasion of his 50 years of association with the University at a luau held last Sunday in the pasture of Professor and Mrs. L. R. Blinks. The site was chosen for its proximity to operation Roast Pig which formed soul and center of the festivities. Dr. Fisher proved his right to the title of comparative anatomist by his deft dissection of The Pig for the 50 friends, plus a generous number of children and dogs, who had joined the celebration in his honor.

Before his retirement in 1943, Dr. Fisher was director of the Hopkins Marine Station and a professor of Zoology. He and his wife, Ann Fisher, are winter residents of Pacific Grove and summer, of Carmel Valley.

Bob Barry Married

One day in May Vivian Mann of Palo Alto and Bob Barry of Carmel eloped to Reno where they were married by the Reverend Walter Hanne. Announcement of the wedding was made last week by the bride's mother, Mrs. Vivian Davies, to the couple's friends and Stanford University classmates.

As Bob faces an Army enlistment, plans for the two are indefinite at present. His basic training begins immediately and while he is off learning fighting fundamentals, Vivian will travel with her family in the Far East and will enroll for her junior year at Stanford in the fall. Bob, a senior at Stanford majoring in architecture, has suspended academic plans for now but hopes to resume them with the termination of his military service.

The bride's parents are Mrs. Davies of Palo Alto and George Mann of San Francisco. She has a brother, Richard, a junior at Stanford and a sister, Diana, in her freshman year at Castilleja. Vivian is a graduate of the Katherine Branson School in Ross.

Bob, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barry of Camino Real and Eleventh Streets in Carmel, is a member of Chi Psi Fraternity on the Stanford campus. He is a Carmel lifer, having been born and raised here and attended both Sunset and Carmel High schools.

With the Army having sole say in their immediate movements, the couple plan eventually to make their home on the Monterey Peninsula.

Youthful Virtuosi

Eight children, ranging in ages from 9 to 13 and in musical training from several months to several years, gave a recital last Sunday at the Highland's home of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Kocher. All eight were pupils of Mrs. Elayne Lavrans Hopper, and the program was the summing up of their months of diligent devotion to keyboard intricacies. Included in the program were works of Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Schubert, Handel, Chopin and Grieg, an ambitious program which the children handled well, showing skill that delighted the parents and friends who had come to hear them. Participating were John Durein, Karen Swanson, Jennie Keith Hill, Nancy Lofton, Jean Elston, Donna Work, Suzann Pilot, and Richard Egan.

Whitaker Wedding Tomorrow

Tomorrow at 1:00, Nancy Sherwood of Pacific Grove and Stephen Whitaker of Carmel will be married in St. Angelus Catholic Church in Pacific Grove in the presence of members of their immediate families and a few friends. Nancy's sister, Mrs. Gerald Cummings will be her attendant and Steve's best man will be Lee Laugenour. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sherwood on Sea Palm Drive in Pacific Grove.

For their honeymoon the couple will take to the Sierra Santa Lucia where they have been given key and keeping of a mountain cabin. Earlier this week Steve's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whitaker, hiked in to the cabin to sweep out the spiders and to lay in a supply of celebrant's champagne. Chief concern is how to keep the champagne cool and calm until Nancy and Steve's arrival.

Major Gottlund Advanced

Major John Gottlund has been advanced to the position of signal officer of the Third Division in Korea. Major Gottlund, whose mother, Mrs. Zoe Gottlund lives in Pacific Grove and whose wife and son, Stevie, live in Carmel, first made his mark as a member of Pacific Grove High School's gridiron eleven and carried his football playing prowess on to Modesto Junior College and the College of William and Mary in Virginia. Prior to his recall to active duty in June of last year, he was coaching and teaching in Glenn County, California.

During World War II, he saw two and one half years of combat duty in the European theater of operations. In September, 1951, he went to Korea where, before his recent advancement, he was assistant signal officer with the third — called the Rock of the Marne— Division.

Mrs. Gottlund has been living in Carmel on Santa Rita Street since her husband's re-entering the Army a year ago.

Reamers Roll Call

Reams of Reamer grandchildren are currently spending a month beachside in Carmel. Mrs. Irwin Elber (Sara Reamer) of San Francisco and her four children, Jonathan, Danny, Ethel and Davey, are visiting with Mrs. G. W. Reamer at her home on Scenic and Ocean View avenues.

Jo Ann Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fisher of Carmel, will be "capped" and graduate from the Dental Nurses Training School in San Francisco on June 26.

Little Surprise

A stealthy band of neighbors bore down on newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Little for a surprise party last Tuesday night. With Lois Williams leading the conspiratorial crew, they came, Greeks bearing gifts, to the Little's home with a ready made cocktail party in their hands. The former Neva Meyers of Stockton and Les Little of Carmel were married on Wednesday of last week in Salinas. Giving them official welcome to the Lobos and Second Neighborhood Association were Captain and Mrs. William Dewey, Margaret Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Maringer, Mrs. Bea Wilkerson, Marcia Travers, Louise Cabral, Lois Williams, Zella Hammock and Edna Edwards.

Monterey Claims Financial Hardship In Bay School Case

Wednesday night, at the second of a series of three public hearings being held to consider Bay School's request for withdrawal from the Monterey Union High School District and unification with the Carmel School District, Leonard Williams, representing Monterey, read a letter stating the Board's objections to the proposed withdrawal. This would, Mr. Williams read, set a precedent for other small districts in the area in addition to putting a financial hardship on Monterey. The Board's suggestion to the Monterey County Augmented Committee on School Organization was that the Committee make a study for the unification of the whole of the Monterey Peninsula area.

As before, Bay's answer to this stated by Malcolm Millard, was that Bay's need is immediate and that its proposed unification with the Carmel district would not effect future reorganization plans for the area.

Floyd Taylor, field representative of the Bureau of School District Organization, stated that unification could be brought to a vote in February and be effected by July of next year. Martha Moller outlined briefly the historical background of Carmel's withdrawal from the Monterey district in an attempt to show why unification would be impractical at this time.

The meeting was held in the supervisor's office in Salinas. The third and last meeting is scheduled for 6:00 o'clock next Wednesday, June 25, at Berdell's Restaurant.

Kiwanis held a steak-stag party (lots of steak and very staggy, report 40 better-than-satisfied Kiwanis and guests) last Monday night at San Clemente Dam. The white hat of chefhood was conferred on By Ford with Ray Baugh standing by to assist the maestro. Resulting steak and beans were given carte blanche approval and not enough of either remained to make a meal for the fish. The evening gathering was preceded by an afternoon aggregation of sportsmen who were out after trout, he who brought home the heftiest to be named the Big Fisherman. Somehow, the fish derby never quite got under way, although not due to any lack of enthusiasm on the part of its exponents; but Paul Porter was unofficially ceded winner for his efforts in landing a six-inch trout.

J. McCorkindale

After a lengthy illness, Miss Janet McCorkindale, 84 years of age, died last Friday at the home of her nephew, Robert M. Forbes, in Carmel. Services were held the following day at the Paul Mortuary with the Rev. Tod B. Sperling officiating; interment was in the El Carmelo Cemetery in Pacific Grove.

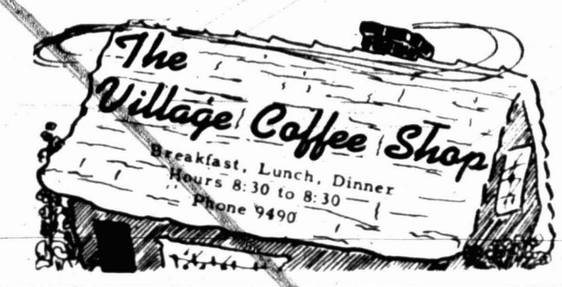

Miss McCorkindale was a native of Scotland and had spent many years in Chicago before coming to Carmel six years ago. Besides her nephew with whom she has been living during these years, she leaves four grand nephews.

Frank Wolfe

Frank Wolfe, 92 years of age, died last Sunday, June 15, in Carmel where he has been living for the past two years. Prior to his retirement some 20 years ago, Mr. Wolfe was a vice-president of the Bank of California and a resident of San Francisco.

A native of Iowa, Mr. Wolfe leaves two brothers, one in Oakland and another in Los Angeles.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday in Palo Alto with interment following in the Cypress Lawn Cemetery in San Francisco. Paul Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

All Fire Engine Drivers	Uniform	5 per month

Section 9. Telephone monthly service charges shall be allowed to all members of the Police Force and to the Street Superintendent for their home telephones.

Section 10. Administration of the Pay Plan.

(a) The steps of each salary range shall be interpreted and applied as follows:

(1) The Probationary rate shall apply for the first six months of service to new employees in the Street, Police, and Fire Departments. In cases where it is difficult to secure personnel at the probationary rate, or if a person of unusual qualifications is engaged, the City Council may, by Resolution, hire at a higher step.

(2) Step No. 1 is the minimum rate for regular employees, and shall be in effect immediately upon completion of the probationary period, if the Council on recommendation of the Department Head makes such regular appointment by Resolution.

(3) Step No. 2 is an incentive advancement to encourage an employee to improve his work. Employees may be advanced to the second step on the first day of the month following the completion of six months of satisfactory service under Step No. 1 upon the written recommendation of the Department Head and approval by the City Council.

(4) Step No. 3 represents the middle value of the salary range, and is the rate at which a fully qualified, experienced and ordinarily conscientious employee may expect to be paid after a reasonable period of satisfactory service. An employee may be advanced to the third step on the first day of the month following the completion of a year of service at the second step, provided the advancement is recommended in writing by the Department Head and upon approval by the City Council.

(5) Step No. 4 is reserved for employees whose work is above the average for their class. An employee may be eligible for advancement to the fourth step after completion of one year at the third step, upon convincing proof in writing by the Department Head that the employee's work is above average and upon approval by the City Council.

(6) Step No. 5 is reserved as a reward for well above average service. An employee may be eligible to be advanced to the fifth step following completion of one year of service at the fourth step, upon convincing proof in writing by the Department Head that the employee's work is well above average, and upon approval by the City Council.

(b) In any case where by reason of unusual circumstances rigid adherence to the foregoing principles regarding salary adjustments would cause a manifest injustice, the City Council may by Resolution make such order relating thereto as in its discretion seems proper.

(c) Rates of compensation provided for by this ordinance, other than position ratings set forth in Section 7, are fixed on the basis of full time service in full time positions. If any position provided for in the budget and Salary schedule is by appropriate language specified or indicated as being for less than full time service, the compensation provided for such positions shall be adjusted proportionately.

(d) The steps provided in the salary range shall be taken only as a result of consecutive years of service.

Section 2. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance be, and they hereby are, repealed.

Section 3. That the City Clerk of said City is hereby instructed to cause this ordinance to be published once in The Carmel Pine Cone, the official newspaper of said City, within fifteen (15) days after its final passage and approval.

Section 4. Effective Date. This Ordinance is hereby declared to be urgent and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health, peace and safety, and shall take effect and be in force beginning July 1st, 1952. The following is a statement of such urgency: Authority for the payment of salaries for all city employees, including those in the protective services, is required prior to the beginning of the new fiscal year, as the City is in danger of losing the services of valuable employees.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

A vital question to all mankind will be the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, June 22. The question is this: "Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?"

The following verse from First Corinthians will be included in the Bible citations contained in the sermon:

"The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned" (2:14).

The correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include these statements:

"God is infinite, therefore ever present, and there is no other power nor presence. Hence the spirituality of the universe is the only fact of creation" (p. 471).

1924 Mr. Bunt Cast, Grown Ups Remember Amusing Incidents

Winsor's successor as the pedantic Owl is Eric Borg, a familiar figure on Carmel streets which he takes in his barefoot stride; Ruth Velissaratos has Lewis' task of photographing the show—one of her studies appearing in this issue of the Pine Cone; as yet no one has been named to take Talbert's role of milkman.

The nicest thing about playing the part of Dabs, says Dale Leidig who is now superintendent of the Naval Line School post office, was that in the character of Dabs he was allowed not only to spit but also to use a word forbidden at home. At one point in the play his line was, "Get the hell out of here," and according to Dale it was his great moment in the theater. Needless to add that the new Dabs, Toby Edson, is delivering the line with equal gusto.

When asked what her recollection of Bunt was, Mrs. Chester Hare, who was then Hilda Taylor, replied, "I rode a horse and it kicked me." Mrs. Hare's successor has not been found either.

Harry Giem, who operates the service station at San Carlos and Seventh, played a bigger role in Mister Bunt than he knew. Fascinated by Ira Remsen's beard, Harry attached himself to the play's author; and Rem in turn, fascinated by the sound of Harry Giem's name, called elfish Gyem of the play after him. Neil Giárratanna plays Harry's namesake this year. Harry's niece, Carole Giem will be one of the fairies.

Former fairies Kevin and Moira Wallace are now, the one a feature writer with the San Francisco Chronicle, the other artist and wife of George Courvoisier.

"It was a wonderful way to get to know Carmel's real people," recalls Mrs. Bruce Monahan, who had come to Carmel shortly before. In taking part in Forest Theater activities, Bruce was starting a family tradition which her son, Mike Monahan, is carrying on. Mike was one of the authors of the musical, This Is It, which was produced at the Forest Theater last year and whose successor, That's The Ticket, is being readied for performance later in the summer.

As for Bunt himself, he was played originally by Scott Douglas, son of Mrs. Thomas Douglas of Carmel. He is now a radio line chief with the American President Steamship Company. Mrs. Douglas remembers Rem saying that the Bunt he thought he would never find he had found in Scott. Blanche Tolmie has said much the same about Michael Elsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Elsen, who is now learning Bunt's role.

Mister Bunt, the play itself, seems to be the only thing which has not changed in the 28 years since the day of its original production the play and its appeal to the young and the youthful for whom Rem wrote it.

The adult roles of Sandman and Milkman are still unfilled and the cast always allows elasticity enough for several more dancers and fairies. Next, the call will be out for strong right arms to aid in the construction of sets and such. In short, put in an appearance at the Forest Theater around 1:00 o'clock of an afternoon and your talents, in whatever direction they may lie, will be put to good use.

—Ann Fraser.

Marian Garrott

Services were held last Friday for Mrs. Marian (Susie) Garrott of Carmel, a resident of this city since Perry Newberry built a home for her and her husband, Hal Garrott, in Hatton Fields a quarter of a century ago. The Garrotts came to Carmel first in 1927 to visit her sister and shortly after that they made their permanent home here.

Mrs. Garrott was born in New York but spent most of her early years in Minneapolis. Following their marriage in 1924, the Garrotts lived in Minneapolis, in Florida and in New York before coming to the West Coast.

Hers is an enviable record of achievement: she was a fine musician, skilled in handicrafts, and a talented gardener in whose garden several species of flowers were grown for the first time in this area. More important, she leaves a record of unselfish love and devotion to her many friends and neighbors.

Surviving are Mr. Garrott and two sisters, Miss Jessie Caplin and Miss Grace Caplin, both of Carmel.

Services were held at the Dorney and Farlinger Funeral Home and cremation followed at the Little Chapel-By-The-Sea.

Ida Fortier

After an illness of some months, Mrs. Ida Fortier, 94, died yesterday morning at the Eagle's Nursing Home in Carmel. Mrs. Fortier had been living in Carmel with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Thorne, for the past three years; before coming here she had lived in Seattle, Washington. She was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Besides her daughter, she leaves a son, Col. Malcolm Fortier of Seattle, a half-sister, Mrs. Grace Helwig of Riverside, California, and two granddaughters.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Mission Mortuary.

Other Wharf Players who will appear in the witty and delightful comedy include Tom Brock, Donna Powers, Nick LeFeuvre, Dee Olivetti, and Mary Buckner.
